
Minecraft How To Get A Cat

Minecraft How To Get A Cat

Downloaded from turn-nyc-edge-vdmdp.louper.io by Maxwell & Hodges

YOUR COMPLETE GUIDE TO MINECRAFT: HOW TO GET A CAT

If you've ever wandered through a village in Minecraft and spotted a mysterious feline slinking between houses, you've probably wondered, "Minecraft how to get a cat as a pet?" Cats are not just decorative—they're one of the most useful mobs in the game. They can scare away creepers, bring you gifts at dawn, and provide companionship during your survival adventures. In this comprehensive guide, we'll walk you through everything you need to know about taming and caring for cats, from finding them to breeding them. Whether you're playing Java Edition or Bedrock Edition, the process is straightforward once you understand the steps. So grab your fishing rod, cook some fish, and let's dive into the purrfect world of Minecraft cats.

WHY YOU WANT A CAT IN MINECRAFT

Before we explain how to get a cat in Minecraft, it helps to understand why you should bother. Cats are more than just cute pixelated pets. They have several game-changing benefits:

- Creeper deterrent: Creepers will avoid a cat even if it's sitting, giving you a safe zone around your base.

- Phantom protection: If you sleep near a cat, it can help reduce phantom spawns by providing a "cat's gift" status effect.
- Morning gifts: A tamed cat will occasionally give you a gift at dawn, such as rabbit's foot, string, or phantom membrane.
- Emotional support: Let's be honest—having a cat follow you around makes the blocky world feel a little less lonely.

Now that you know why cats are valuable, let's discuss where to find them.

WHERE TO FIND CATS IN MINECRAFT

Cats in Minecraft do not spawn randomly in the wild like wolves or horses. Instead, they have two primary habitats: villages and swamp huts. Understanding these locations is the first step in mastering Minecraft how to get a cat.

Stray Cats in Villages

Stray cats are common in villages across all biomes. They spawn naturally as part of the village population, usually near houses, farms, or meeting points. The number of stray cats depends on the number of villagers and beds. Each village can have up to 10 stray cats. They are typically white, black, calico, or tuxedo-colored. These cats are already “wild” and need to be tamed. Be aware that if you scare them (by running, sprinting, or making sudden movements), they will flee and disappear after a short distance. So approach slowly.

Witch Huts and Black Cats

If you want a black cat, your best bet is to find a swamp hut (also called a witch hut) in a swamp biome. A black cat always spawns inside the hut alongside a witch. You can tame it the same way you tame a stray cat. However, note that the witch may attack you, so you might need to clear the area first. Black cats also have a spooky vibe that many players love for decorative builds.

ITEMS NEEDED: RAW COD OR SALMON

The only food that works for taming a cat in Minecraft is raw cod or raw salmon. Cooked fish does not work. You can obtain these fish from any water source using a fishing rod. If you don't have a fishing rod, craft one with three sticks and two string. Alternatively, you can fish from a river, ocean, or even a small pond. A single fish can tame a cat if you're lucky, but you may need up to ten. I recommend gathering at least a stack (16 or 20) of raw fish before heading out. Remember, raw cod or salmon is the key to answering “Minecraft how to get a cat” efficiently.

Where to Get Fish

1. Fishing: Stand near water, right-click (or press the use button) to cast your line, wait for a bite, and reel in.
2. Killing fish mobs: You can also kill cod or salmon in water with a sword, but this is less efficient.
3. Drowned drops: Drowned zombies sometimes drop raw cod, but this is random.

To save time, consider building a simple automated fish farm or just spend a few minutes at a river with a fishing rod until you have a good supply.

STEP-BY-STEP: HOW TO TAME A CAT

Now we get to the heart of the matter: the actual taming process. Follow these steps carefully to succeed in taming a cat in Minecraft.

Step 1: Find a Cat

Locate a village. If you don't know where one is, explore around your spawn point or use a map. In the village, look for a cat sitting or walking near buildings. Do not sprint near it—approach slowly.

Step 2: Equip the Fish

Select raw cod or raw salmon in your hotbar so that you are holding the fish in your hand. The cat will look at you and may slowly walk toward you if it sees the fish. If it runs away, it's too scared—back off and wait for it to calm down.

Step 3: Approach Slowly

Move toward the cat at a walking pace. Do not run or jump. If the cat starts to walk away, stop moving and let it come to you. Patience matters. You can also crouch (sneak) to make less noise.

Step 4: Feed Until Hearts Appear

Once you are within about three blocks of the cat, right-click (or press the use button) while holding the fish. Hearts will appear above the cat, indicating taming progress. One fish may be enough, but sometimes you need to feed it multiple times. Keep feeding until the cat's collar color matches your dye (if you have one) or simply when it starts to follow you.

Step 5: Cat is Tamed

After the hearts appear, the cat will stand up and start following you. It now has a red collar by default. Congratulations! You have successfully tamed a cat. The answer to “Minecraft how to get a cat” is now complete.

HOW TO TRANSPORT YOUR CAT

Once tamed, your cat will follow you everywhere, unless you tell it to sit. To make the cat sit, right-click on it without holding fish. It will stay in place until you right-click again. To transport your cat over long distances (e.g., through a nether portal), you can lead it with fish? Actually, cats cannot be leashed. Instead, have the cat follow you while holding raw fish. If it gets stuck, you can pick it up? No, you cannot pick up tamed cats like items. However, you can use a lead on a cat? In Bedrock Edition, you can use a lead on a tamed cat. In Java Edition, you cannot. The most reliable method is to have the cat follow you while you walk slowly, or use a boat. Boats can carry cats: push the cat into a boat by holding fish and leading it in, then you can row the boat through water or even land. For nether travel, you can push the cat through the portal while it follows you. Be careful not to lose it.

BREEDING CATS IN MINECRAFT

If you want more cats, you don't have to go searching for new villages. You can breed the cats you already have. To breed cats, you need two tamed cats (they can be of any color) and raw cod or salmon. Feed both cats the fish, and they will enter “love mode,” producing a kitten. The kitten will inherit a random coat color from the parents or even a rare tuxedo pattern. The kitten will follow the parents until it grows up (about 20 minutes). You can also use fish to speed up growth by feeding a baby cat. Breeding is a great way to populate your base with creeper-scarers and gift-givers.

WHAT CATS DO (BEHAVIOR AND BENEFITS)

After you’ve learned how to tame a cat in Minecraft, you’ll notice several behaviors:

- Following: A tamed cat will follow you if you are holding raw fish, or it may follow you anyway if you walk within 10 blocks.
- Sitting: Right-click to make it sit; it will stay put until you right-click again.
- Gifts: In the morning (dawn), a tamed cat has a chance to drop a “gift” item next to you when you wake up. This can include string, feather, rabbit hide, phantom membrane, or even a phantom membrane.
- Creeper avoidance: Creepers will not approach within 6 blocks of a cat, whether tamed or stray.

- Sleeping on beds: Cats love to sleep on beds, including your bed. They may block you from sleeping if they are on it. You can push them off or wait for them to move.

These behaviors make cats one of the handiest mobs to have around your survival base.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Can you tame an ocelot to get a cat?

No, in modern versions of Minecraft (Java 1.14+ and Bedrock 1.11+), ocelots are separate from cats. Taming an ocelot gives you a trustful ocelot that won’t despawn, but it is not a cat. To get a cat, you must find stray cats or witch hut cats.

Do cats scare phantoms?

Cats don’t directly scare phantoms, but having a cat near your bed can give you the “cat’s gift” status effect during the night, reducing phantom spawn.

Can you change a cat’s collar color?

Yes, you can dye a tamed cat’s collar by right-clicking on it with any dye. This changes the collar color without affecting the cat’s fur.